

Abstract

The invention relates to methods for differentiating chronic alcoholics from acute alcoholics (i.e., binge drinkers), using levels of ethyl oleate and ethyl palmitate. Also provided are methods for determining ethanol intake, including post-mortem determination of ante-mortem ethanol intake.

5

Patent Pending